

Mergers & Acquisitions

No one wants to be a statistic; certainly not one related to failed mergers and acquisitions. None the less, the majority of mergers and acquisitions do fail. Research suggests that up to 65% of failed mergers and acquisitions are due to 'people issues', i.e. conflicting cultures, differences causing communication breakdowns that result in poor productivity. With a wealth of knowledge and hands-on experience piloting all stages from due diligence to cultural and corporate integration, we can deliver guidance and leadership to a seamless integration, making the most of the assets and capital for a successful transition.
